Dear Fellow Educator,

Studies show that having effective teachers and site administrators can dramatically close the achievement gap between socioeconomically disadvantaged students and their more affluent counterparts.

With this fact in mind, RAPSA has planned one comprehensive professional development event that addresses the whole school – students, teachers, administrators – and builds school success from the ground up.

I want to invite you to take action for your at-risk students by registering yourself and your colleagues for the newly combined Reaching At-Promise Students National Conference and Leaders Institute.

It's twice the information, twice the creative planning time,* and twice the fun... for one great value!

We can't wait to show you all the experts and proven strategies for content areas, leadership, classroom management, community involvement, and more. With all that we offer, this RAPSA conference will be the only one you need.

Register now for the Reaching At-Promise Students National Conference and Leaders Institute, February 20-22, 2009! For more information, call us at 800.871.7482.

Regards,

Eileen Holmes
RAPSA Conference Director

P.S. Come as a team! We offer generous group discounts. What a great way to build a better staff for your struggling learners!

IMPORTANT: Please CLICK HERE to continue to receive important news, discounts, and updates for this and other RAPSA events.

Subject: Need Your Help

Dear Governor Sarah Palin,

Governor Palin My name is Brian Nelson. My Dad lives in Whittier. I spend every summer with him. This summer I worked at the restaurant at Portage Glacier. I am a 17-year-old senior at Pueblo West high School in Pueblo West, Colorado. It is my dream to fly helicopters. I am talking with an Army recruiter to go from high school to Army flight school. The recruiter said I need some reference letters from influential people to make this dream come true. You were the first person that came to mind. A reference letter from you would make my dream come true.

A little about me: My ASVAB score was a 92. I carry between a 3.8 and 3.9 GPA while taking accelerated classes at my high school. I bench 205 lbs and squat 245 lbs. I drive a 1992 Ford F-250, because it was all I could afford. I have never been in any kind of trouble with the law or at school. My parents call me low maintenance. My dad was in the Coast Guard for twelve years and my step-dad was Army for sixteen years. My passion is to fly helicopters, and I want to serve my country as my dads did. I need a reference letter from you to have this dream come true.

When I told people, I was sending you a request for a reference letter a lot of them told me you would not even respond. My stepdad always told me, God determines what is possible and any dream can come true in America. The truth is a letter from you would pave the way to me appearing before the warrant officer enlistment board. Please write me a reference letter to be a flight warrant officer in the Army so I can realize my dream. I promise you to serve my country with pride and honor. Thank you for your help in living my dream.

This letter is coming to you in e-mail because it is the most cost effective means; also, my recruiter said that time is of the essence. The e-mail format is the quickest way I know. Besides texting, but that would be way too informal.

Sincerely,

Brian Nelson

Dear Mr./Ms. Ombudsman

Very sad when I can do 20 min worth of Googling and call the Alaska OMB directly to get the complete story on this topic reported here

http://voices.washingtonpost.com/the-trail/2008/09/02/palin_slashed_funding_to_help.html

Mr. Kane doesn't put in context the Governors veto, but instead calls a first time $3.9 million dollar capital contribution a slash. There was no prior year funding and since this is a one time item, there may not be any future funding of this capital program.

Here's the back up on the original request.

http://www.gov.state.ak.us/omb/09_omb/budget/CapBackup/FY09/proj48722.pdf

SB 53 as signed had no funding for this program for the 2008 FY

The current budget DOES and was signed by the Governor. Going from $0 to $3.9 is a SLASH? C'mon. Is that good journalism? No context? No comments from the people receiving the grant? No comments for someone in the gov office in Alaska? How lazy. It was easy for me, I Googled the Alaska OMB, dialed the number and bingo got to talk to someone who could confirm what I was seeing in SOURCE DOCUMENTS online. Gosh the Internet is amazing (THANKS AL Gore!) heheheh....

If a woman sitting at a computer in Texas can ask the right questions and find the answers online, what does that tell you about the quality of reporting in this case?

Is this symptomatic of what I read on your website? I presume Mr. Kane is not a blogger and that the quality and standards of what I read from him and the other writers/reporters under the banner of the WP meets the traditional standards of journalism, right?

I guess the WP will now doing a story noting Palin's strong support for the expansion of the programs at Covenant House Alaska.

Hmmmmm. I don't think I'm going to hold my breath........

Dear Governor's office,

Is there any way to contact Mr. Todd Palin and request an autographed photo from the 4 time Iron Dog champion? We'd sure love that down here in Washington State! Perhaps you could be so kind as to forward this request to him?

Dear Governor Palin,

Your acceptance speech was excellent – over the top! If John McCain wanted to excite and energize his campaign, he really did it. You are doing a great job, in spite of a mean-spirited press corps. That will all settle down soon. All of the local and national press, the daily talk shows and the late night shows are all about Sarah Palin from that small town in Alaska. We are proud of you and your family.

I realize I'm taking a long shot here, but I'd like to see if you could come to Alaska for a few hours the week of September 21 through 25 to speak to the American Association of Port Authorities (AAPA) convention here in Anchorage. We are the first convention to be held in the impressive new Dena'ina Convention Center. In attendance will be some 700 people – Port Directors, Port Commissioners, and transportation, infrastructure and supply companies – from throughout the United States, Canada, the Caribbean, South America and Mexico. We would be extremely proud if you could join us and briefly address this group as Alaska's Governor and as a Vice Presidential candidate.

We would of course accommodate your schedule at any time during those five days but some of the highlighted events where you could address the group are:

Tuesday, September 23rd – Opening ceremonies from 8:45 a.m. to 10:00 a.m. This will be a spectacular event.

Tuesday, September 23rd – Prior to a luncheon featuring Vice Admiral Thomas Barrett, U.S. Deputy Secretary of Transportation.

Wednesday, September 24th – Prior to a luncheon that highlights AAPA awards or at 2:00 p.m. prior to the delegates' departure for a train ride from Anchorage to Grandview and return.

Thursday, September 25th – Anytime during that day but it would be very special to have you speak briefly at our Gala Dinner that gets underway at 6:30 p.m.

As you know, the new Dena'ina can accommodate up to 3,300 people and if you were to appear, I'm certain at least that many people would be there – AAPA delegates and Alaskans alike. Maybe an Alaska send-off rally?

Please think about it and I'd appreciate your giving it serious consideration. Thanks.

As a 36 year resident and registered Independent, I would like to know if Governor Palin is being paid by the State of Alaska while she works for John McCain and the Republican Party. Are there regulations that preclude her collecting money for her state job when she obviously isn't spending any time on it at all? Is she taking a leave of absence? Is the Republican Party paying for travel or is Alaska paying for that? Our Governor should put Alaska and the citizens of Alaska first. That is what she was elected to do. If she is unwilling to do that she should resign. It is my opinion that her nasty speeches on the national level will turn off over half of the population and hurt Alaska's image.
